CONSIDER SHIP GUN POWER AND TONNAGE

TWO PROPOSALS ARE BEFORE THE NAVAL PARLEY

FRANCE BELIEVES IN FREE SHIFTING OF TONNAGE FROM CLASS TO CLASS

BRITAIN WANTS BATTLESHIPS EXCLUDED FROM ANY TONNAGE SHIFT

By RAYMOND CLAPPER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

London, Feb. 4.—The delegates to the London naval conference, sitting as a committee of the whole, met at St. James Palace today, to continue their discussion of methods by which tonnage and gun-power may be distributed among the various classes of warships. They convened at 10 A. M.

Premier J. Ramsay MacDonald presided, with Henry L. Stimson of the United States; Reijiro Wakatsukia, of Japan; Dino Grandi, of Italy; and Ambassador Aime-Joseph De Fleuriau representing France in the absence of Premier Andre Tardiue, in attendance.

Two proposals were before the meeting.

The first, which has been examined privately for nearly a week, came from France, and included the suggestion that any nation be permitted to shift any amount of tonnage from one class to another.

The second, a counter proposal by Great Britain, would exclude battleships as one of the classes from which—or to which—tonnage could be transferred.

The entire American delegation met in private at 8:45 A. M., at headquarters in the Ritz, prior to leaving for St. James Palace, presumably to discuss the latest British proposals.

Great satisfaction was expressed by a spokseman for the French concrete counter proposals to the French project for shifting tonnage from one class of warships to another.

An early showdown on the cruiser problem—which is one of the most difficult before the conference — was looked for the result of today's interchange of views.

It is increasingly evident that the powers are more concerned with distribution of fighting strength to terms of gun-power, than in the actual number of cruisers permitted each navy.

To this end, it is believed that every delegation is willing to enter a discussion which will seek to fix definite limits to ships carrying 6-inch guns. It is warships of this type which are the most effective weapons against commerce, and to stabilize this class of ships means to reduce to a minimum the commerce-raiding character of the navies.

London, Feb. 4.—Final decision on a plan for discussing limitation of warships by a combination of British and French proposals was understood today to rest with the chief delegates—or Big Five—of the naval conference. The Big Five will continue its discussions tomorrow on the basis of the work of the first, or steering committee.

The chief delegates met for an hour at St. James Palace after the meeting of the first committee. The committee considered the French plan for transference of tonnage from one class of ship to another and the British compromise which would limit such transference, except in ships not larger than six-inch gun cruisers.

The committee discussed the entire problem of the Anglo-French compromise as excellent basis for negotiation on transference of tonnage. There still remained, however, some obstacles to the French plan which were not removed by the supplemental British suggestions and it was expected the Big Five would be called upon to make a final decision. The first committee did not decide when it would reconvene.

The chief delegates, except for Premier Andre Tardieu who was represented by Ambassador Aime-Joseph De Fleuriau, went into session at 11:30 A. M. and again discussed procedure of the conference. An official communique said there was a general agreement that the conversations between delegations, which have been fruitful in preparing the way for agreements, must continue.

The heads of the delegations will meet tomorrow at 6 P. M. to continue their discussions in the light of the work of the first committee.

The British spokesman said the two meetings this morning had developed "quite a hopeful attitude." He said reservations were being made by some of the delegations but they were only formal reservations.

The discussions were "very frank" in elucidating certain points and showed that the difficulties were not as great as they might appear.

CANGSTER IS "PUT ON SPOT" TODAY IN CHICAGO

COMES 8 HOURS AFTER POLICE OFFICIALS PLEDGED "DRASTIC ACTION"

TRUE TO GANGLAND CODE, WM. HEALY, BULLET RIDDLED, KEEPS SILENT

Chicago, Feb. 4.—(U.P.)—Within eight hours after police officials and the state's attorney had pledged "drastic action" to halt an epidemic of murders and bombings, a gangster was "put on the spot" early today and lay near death in a hospital.

True to gangland's code, William Healy, 37, would not tell who had riddled him with bullets. Police, who linked him with Danny Stanton's clique of south side beer runners, said he probably suffered the vengeance of the beer racketeers.

Curses, shots and the roar of an automobile announced the latest depredation of the gunmen. A police patrol roared to the district, on Normal boulevard, and found Healy had crawled from an alley to the sidewalk. One bullet wound was under his chin and two pierced his back.

He was the fifth victim of gang "justice" in as many days. The four previous instances were listed as murders, since the victims were killed outright.

Bombings, holdups, robberies, knife affrays and crime of all calibre has been rampant since the wave started a week ago. Five bombings came in one 24-hour period.

Three murders already have been relegated to the files of "unsolved." Police fear they may never know who shot and killed Barnet J. Mitchell, treasurer of the Checker Cab Company, and Glenn Jackson, a driver, in a cab on a northside street, or who shot down Julius Rosenheim, informer against criminals.

Clues were more numerous in the assassination of Joseph (Motor Car) Cada, young dude gangster who was shot to death by two men who rode with him in his expensive automobile through a north side street early Sunday.

Police had a peculiar reason to regret the shooting of Healy. His father, now dead, had been a policeman.

"Is that you, Joe?" the wounded man gasped when Patrolman Joseph Kirk bent over him on the south side street.

Kirk and the elder Healy had walked the same beat together ten years ago.

His wife, learning where he had been taken, left their three children and hurried to the Peoples Hospital and a priest came to administer the last rites of the church. Even after the sacrament was administered, Healy would not talk to police.

A slap he administered to a young woman in the Green Mull Garden, a night club, the night before he was slain was seen today as a possible explanation of the Cada killing. Police learned two men had followed Cada out of the club.

Detectives sought the girl he slapped, but would not reveal her name. They intimated that if she is found, the Cada case would be "on the way to solution."

L. A. LOHENBAAKEN SAYS HE BOUGHT 130 MUSKRATS FROM COMPANY

DECLARES HE LOANED COMPANY $1,280, RECEIVES NO RETURN FROM EITHER

Minneapolis, Feb. 4.—(U.P.)—Investigation of the defunct Ten Thousand Lakes Fur Farm Corporation turned toward St. Cloud today after one investor filed a claim for $11,030 allegedly lost in the concern.

L. A. Lohenbaaken of St. Cloud, the investor, said he purchased 130 muskrats from the corporation between Aug. 15 and Nov. 1, 1927. He also declared he loaned the company $1,280 and received no return from either investment.

Lohenbaaken said the corporation gave him five worthless checks and he was given a note for the loan, on which no payments were made.

Michael F. Kinkaid, assistant United States attorney, today was reported to be investigating the stock-selling activities of the fur farm organization in central Minnesota near Little Falls and St. Cloud.

Another investigation was being pursued by W. E. G. Watson, receiver for the corporation. Watson was said to have interviewed an official of the company and a former state official involved in the case.

The Hennepin county grand jury reported no further action in its investigation, apparently awaiting the return from Washington of Floyd B. Olson, county attorney.

The county grand jury will meet Friday when indictments against officials and salesmen of the company may be considered.

Frank Carlisle, 24, billiard parlor worker who was with Bacheller said they had been in the billiard hall most of the day. When they left, two men joined them. They had an argument, Carlisle said, and one of the men took out a revolver and shot Bacheller while he struggled with the other man. Carlisle was struck over the left eye with a gun. The two men escaped.

Carlisle and Bacheller's brother, who saw the struggle, will be questioned by police today. The brother said he had seen the men before but did not recognize them.

COLD AND STORMS STOP SEARCH FOR TIME IN NORTH

BODIES OF CARL BEN EIELSON AND EARL BORLAND NOT LOCATED

Nome, Alaska, Feb. 4.—(U.P.)—Bitter cold and storms of the Arctic temporarily have ended the drawn out search for Carl Ben Eielson and Earl Borland, it was learned today by radio from the fur ship Nanuk.

All of the planes sent to the scene of the wreck on the desolate Siberian coast 90 miles from the Nanuk, have been withdrawn, Joe Crosson, chief pilot of the searching expedition, said.

A heavy blizzard set in two days ago, compelling the pilots to seek haven on the Nanuk and abandon the camp establishment near the fragments of the Eielson plane. Extreme cold prevented search through the snowdrifts for bodies, even had the wind and snow not joined in winter's attack on the party, Crosson said.

After several false reports of the finding of Eielson and Borland safe, all hope has been abandoned for the pair, lost since they left Teller Nov. 9 to fly to rescue of the Nanuk.

HARD TO LEGISLATE MORALITY INTO THE PEOPLE OF THE U. S.

DECLARES PROHIBITION HAS MADE U. S. NATION OF HYPOCRITICAL PRETENSE

St. Paul, Feb. 4.—(U.P.)—Prohibition has made the United States a nation of hypocritical pretense, Rev. W. A. Bolger, vice president of St. Thomas college and military academy, said in an address last night before the Tuber Society, an anti-prohibition organization.

Rev. Bolger said he had been a total abstainer all his life, but that he does not believe in the theory of legislating morality into people. He declared that prohibition cannot be enforced, repealed or forgotten.

Among his pertinent remarks were: "Some of the prohibition laws are acts of violence. They make innocent and devout Christian families criminals under the law.

"All revolutions have been fought for liberty. It is the fundamental right of the people.

"Until we can convert to dry persuasion these millions of 'low brows' who have always had beer and wine, we cannot build jails enough to hold them. And we don't want to.

"If you believe the prohibition law cannot be enforced, say so.

"Until the drys become total abstainers the wets will rightly call them hypocrites.

"When Americans vote as they drink and drink as they vote, we will either get this law repealed or enforced."

BOOTY TAKEN FROM ST. PAUL BANK AMOUNTS TO $2,000

St. Paul, Feb. 4.—(U.P.)—Working so quietly that three bank employes did not know a holdup was in progress, a bandit robbed the Payne Avenue State Bank this afternoon and escaped with $2,000.

The bandit commanded L. D. Engberg, cashier, to hand over the money he had in the cage. Not until Engberg spread the alarm after the man had walked out of the bank did President A. J. Newgren and two employes know what had happened.

Mr. Engberg handed over the money, the bandit said, "Is that all?"

Mr. Engberg opened the drawer and showed him it was empty. The loss is covered by insurance.

Several school police and school children, coming from the Emerson school, reported to police that a short distance from the bank they saw a man answering to the bandit's description, get in an automobile.

Police gun squads immediately began touring the vicinity of the bank in the hope of locating the bandit who, as far as is known, had no accomplices and no automobile.

COLD AND STORMS STOP SEARCH FOR TIME IN NORTH

Nome, Alaska, Feb. 4.—(U.P.)—Bitter cold and storms of the Arctic temporarily have ended the drawn out search for Carl Ben Eielson and Earl Borland, it was learned today by radio from the fur ship Nanuk.

All of the planes sent to the scene of the wreck on the desolate Siberian coast 90 miles from the Nanuk, have been withdrawn, Joe Crosson, chief pilot of the searching expedition, said.

A heavy blizzard set in two days ago, compelling the pilots to seek haven on the Nanuk and abandon the camp establishment near the fragments of the Eielson plane. Extreme cold prevented search through the snowdrifts for bodies, even had the wind and snow not joined in winter's attack on the party, Crosson said.

After several false reports of the finding of Eielson and Borland safe, all hope has been abandoned for the pair, lost since they left Teller Nov. 9 to fly to rescue of the Nanuk.

HARD TO LEGISLATE MORALITY INTO THE PEOPLE OF THE U. S.

DECLARES PROHIBITION HAS MADE U. S. NATION OF HYPOCRITICAL PRETENSE

St. Paul, Feb. 4.—(U.P.)—Prohibition has made the United States a nation of hypocritical pretense, Rev. W. A. Bolger, vice president of St. Thomas college and military academy, said in an address last night before the Tuber Society, an anti-prohibition organization.

Rev. Bolger said he had been a total abstainer all his life, but that he does not believe in the theory of legislating morality into people. He declared that prohibition cannot be enforced, repealed or forgotten.

Among his pertinent remarks were: "Some of the prohibition laws are acts of violence. They make innocent and devout Christian families criminals under the law.

"All revolutions have been fought for liberty. It is the fundamental right of the people.

"Until we can convert to dry persuasion these millions of 'low brows' who have always had beer and wine, we cannot build jails enough to hold them. And we don't want to.

"If you believe the prohibition law cannot be enforced, say so.

"Until the drys become total abstainers the wets will rightly call them hypocrites.

"When Americans vote as they drink and drink as they vote, we will either get this law repealed or enforced."

BANDIT ROBS PAYNE AVENUE STATE BANK

WORKS SO QUIETLY 3 BANK EMPLOYES KNEW NOTHING ABOUT IT

BOOTY TAKEN FROM ST. PAUL BANK AMOUNTS TO $2,000

St. Paul, Feb. 4.—(U.P.)—Working so quietly that three bank employes did not know a holdup was in progress, a bandit robbed the Payne Avenue State Bank this afternoon and escaped with $2,000.

The bandit commanded L. D. Engberg, cashier, to hand over the money he had in the cage. Not until Engberg spread the alarm after the man had walked out of the bank did President A. J. Newgren and two employes know what had happened.

Mr. Engberg handed over the money, the bandit said, "Is that all?"

Mr. Engberg opened the drawer and showed him it was empty. The loss is covered by insurance.

Several school police and school children, coming from the Emerson school, reported to police that a short distance from the bank they saw a man answering to the bandit's description, get in an automobile.

Police gun squads immediately began touring the vicinity of the bank in the hope of locating the bandit who, as far as is known, had no accomplices and no automobile.

2 OTHER CANDIDATES MAY BE JOHN H. HOUGEN AND MAYOR KUNZE

St. Paul, Feb. 4.—(U.P.)—N. J. Holmberg, state commissioner of agriculture, dairying and foods, today filed his application for the republican nomination for governor.

Holmberg's candidacy was believed to forecast a three-cornered race for the office. Former Governor J. A. A. Burnquist previously had filed and Ray P. Chase, state auditor, has indicated he will announce his candidacy soon.

Chase was not at his office today and could not be reached for a statement. He has informed friends, however, that he will seek the republican nomination.

Two other prospective candidates for the republican gubernatorial nomination are State Senator John H. Hougen of Crookston and Mayor William F. Kunze of Minneapolis.

OVER 90% OF THESE DOCTORS SAID "YES"

Group of Physicians Favor Natural 100% Bran for Constipation

Perhaps you are one of the millions of people in this country who suffer from atonic constipation—bowel irregularity resulting from intestinal sluggishness. Here is expert advice for its relief—the opinion of thousands of physicians on this vital subject.

Not long ago ten thousand doctors were asked this question, "Do you believe that raw natural 100% bran is the best form of bran for the relief of constipation?"

93% of the answers were "Yes."

Pillsbury's Bran is natural 100% bran — nothing added, nothing taken away. Doctors say natural 100% bran is best. Think over these two statements—then go to your grocer tomorrow, get a package of Pillsbury's Bran, and start the natural relief of that aggravating and dangerous condition. The unpleasant results of constipation are well-known—headaches, lassitude, sallow complexion, loss of sleep, nervousness, loss of vitality and increased susceptibility to more serious disease.

Add roughage to your diet—primitive man ate roughage, and had no constipation. Pillsbury's Bran is roughage in a particularly effective form. You can use it to prepare many delicious foods—muffins, tea cakes, apple cake, macaroons, doughnuts, etc.—the recipes are on the Pillsbury package. You can sprinkle it over salads, or mix it with cereals. You can eat it as it comes from the package, with cream and sugar. No matter how you eat it, Pillsbury's Bran is the best kind of bran—natural 100% bran, recommended by this overwhelming majority of doctors.

OVER 90% OF THESE DOCTORS SAID "YES"

Group of Physicians Favor Natural 100% Bran for Constipation

Perhaps you are one of the millions of people in this country who suffer from atonic constipation—bowel irregularity resulting from intestinal sluggishness. Here is expert advice for its relief—the opinion of thousands of physicians on this vital subject.

Not long ago ten thousand doctors were asked this question, "Do you believe that raw natural 100% bran is the best form of bran for the relief of constipation?"

93% of the answers were "Yes."

Pillsbury's Bran is natural 100% bran — nothing added, nothing taken away. Doctors say natural 100% bran is best. Think over these two statements—then go to your grocer tomorrow, get a package of Pillsbury's Bran, and start the natural relief of that aggravating and dangerous condition. The unpleasant results of constipation are well-known—headaches, lassitude, sallow complexion, loss of sleep, nervousness, loss of vitality and increased susceptibility to more serious disease.

Add roughage to your diet—primitive man ate roughage, and had no constipation. Pillsbury's Bran is roughage in a particularly effective form. You can use it to prepare many delicious foods—muffins, tea cakes, apple cake, macaroons, doughnuts, etc.—the recipes are on the Pillsbury package. You can sprinkle it over salads, or mix it with cereals. You can eat it as it comes from the package, with cream and sugar. No matter how you eat it, Pillsbury's Bran is the best kind of bran—natural 100% bran, recommended by this overwhelming majority of doctors.

Cave of Bats

Because of the thousands of bats that inhabit it, the Carlsbat cave in the Guadalupe mountains, southeastern New Mexico, was formerly known as "Bat Cave." It is said that at dusk each evening these little mammals come out through a large natural opening, at times in such numbers that they look like smoke from a chimney, and for three hours pour forth in a steady stream; then in the early morning they return and with incredible swiftness fold their wings in midair and dart into the opening.

NEW SWITCHBOARD TO RELIEVE OVERLOAD

Water and Light Board Authorized to Expend $13,000 on City's Power Improvement

INSTALL NEW LINES

20 Percent Increase in Electrical Consumption in City Shown in Year

The City Water and Light Board was authorized by the city council last evening to expend the sum of $13,000 for the purchase and installation of a new switchboard at the central station with a power line to connect from and to the business district.

The new switchboard has been deemed necessary to insure continued satisfactory service as the present switchboard is overloaded at times to an extent of more than 20 percent. Certain new main load lines for the business district will also have to be installed.

Under the new system the city will be placed in four distinctive power sections uniting northeast and southeast with separate sections for the northside, business district and the southside.

During the past year an increase has been noted of 20 percent in electrical consumption.

Materials for the switchboard and lines will be ordered immediately although it will be three months before the work is completed.

TANLAC ENDS ANOTHER CASE OF RHEUMATISM

and Stomach Troubles—Hotel Man Benefits This Time

Ending the suffering of 10 years in just a few weeks is going some but that's just an example of how quickly Tanlac works in stubborn cases that never yield to other remedies.

No wonder so many local people are so enthusiastic about Tanlac—no wonder local druggists are loud in praise of this medicine. Read for instance what Mr. J. L. Kline says: "For 10 years have had stomach troubles. Rheumatism also of mornings, stiff and sore all over, mostly in back and shoulders. A good powerful medicine was needed to fix me up and Tanlac proved to be all of that. From it I got relief from all troubles, stomach and rheumatism. My digestion now is just about 100% good. No more pain or distress, eat good, sleep as good as I eat, pain, stiffness, soreness all gone. Rheumatism in back and shoulders wiped out. I have tried out lots of medicines but Tanlac gave me results." That's the story of Tanlac in a nutshell—it gives results and gives them quick, for every herb, bark and root is a real medicine. Many "patent medicines" make glowing promises that may fool you into buying them, but remember Tanlac is a real medicine that backs its claims with a guarantee. At all druggists. Accept no substitute.

Olympic Games Flag

The flag used for the Olympic games has an arrangement of five circles on a white or neutral background. The three upper circles, blue, black and red, do not touch, but they are joined by the two lower circles of yellow and green, which in turn do not touch each other. The blue circle represents Europe; the black, Africa; the red, America; the yellow, Asia, and the green, Australasia.

"LADIES AID" PUT ON FINE PROGRAM

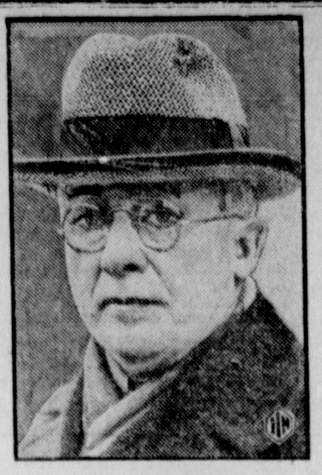

20 Men of Methodist Church Attired as Women, Present Humorous Sketch

Things seemed rather topsy turvy at the Methodist church Friday night when the ladies aid put on a big humorous program. Twenty men of the church dressed like women (some of them very pretty, too) conducted a ladies aid. From the humorous minutes of the last meeting, the bits of gossip, reports of various committees, a short program before lunch, and the antics of John Zander, Jr., as Roland Kufus, and Carney Peterson as Margaret Lee, there were shouts of laughter.

Mrs. L. Johnson directed the Tooneerville German band which was composed of women and men, and the make-up of all was splendid. Mrs. Melvin Gorden was the soloist.

Mrs. Louis Johnson as Tille Olson gave a musical reading which was clever, even to her costume. There were duets, trios, minstrel skits and readings, making a well balanced entertainment and a splendid lunch was served at the close.

Brigadier-General Edgar S. Jennings, former warden of Auburn State Prison, N. His denial to newspaper men of the "surrender note" which he wrote on December 11, when the convicts held him prisoner, while they rioted for freedom, played an important role in the proceedings.

AVOID THAT FUTURE SHADOW*

By refraining from over-indulgence, if you would maintain the modern figure of fashion

Women who prize the modern figure with its subtle, seductive curves—men who would keep that trim, proper figure, eat healthfully but not immoderately. Banish excessiveness—eliminate abuses. Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. When tempted to excess, when your eyes are bigger than your stomach, reach for a Lucky instead. Coming events cast their shadows before. Avoid that future shadow by avoiding over-indulgence if you would maintain the lithe, youthful, modern figure.

We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. 20 Percent Increase in Electrical Consumption in City Shown in Year

The City Water and Light Board was authorized by the city council last evening to expend the sum of $13,000 for the purchase and installation of a new switchboard at the central station with a power line to connect from and to the business district.

The new switchboard has been deemed necessary to insure continued satisfactory service as the present switchboard is overloaded at times to an extent of more than 20 percent. Certain new main load lines for the business district will also have to be installed.

Under the new system the city will be placed in four distinctive power sections uniting northeast and southeast with separate sections for the northside, business district and the southside.

During the past year an increase has been noted of 20 percent in electrical consumption.

Materials for the switchboard and lines will be ordered immediately although it will be three months before the work is completed.

TANLAC ENDS ANOTHER CASE OF RHEUMATISM

and Stomach Troubles—Hotel Man Benefits This Time

Ending the suffering of 10 years in just a few weeks is going some but that's just an example of how quickly Tanlac works in stubborn cases that never yield to other remedies.

No wonder so many local people are so enthusiastic about Tanlac—no wonder local druggists are loud in praise of this medicine. Read for instance what Mr. J. L. Kline says: "For 10 years have had stomach troubles. Rheumatism also of mornings, stiff and sore all over, mostly in back and shoulders. A good powerful medicine was needed to fix me up and Tanlac proved to be all of that. From it I got relief from all troubles, stomach and rheumatism. My digestion now is just about 100% good. No more pain or distress, eat good, sleep as good as I eat, pain, stiffness, soreness all gone. Rheumatism in back and shoulders wiped out. I have tried out lots of medicines but Tanlac gave me results." That's the story of Tanlac in a nutshell—it gives results and gives them quick, for every herb, bark and root is a real medicine. Many "patent medicines" make glowing promises that may fool you into buying them, but remember Tanlac is a real medicine that backs its claims with a guarantee. At all druggists. Accept no substitute.

Olympic Games Flag

The flag used for the Olympic games has an arrangement of five circles on a white or neutral background. The three upper circles, blue, black and red, do not touch, but they are joined by the two lower circles of yellow and green, which in turn do not touch each other. The blue circle represents Europe; the black, Africa; the red, America; the yellow, Asia, and the green, Australasia.

Glove makers at Johanngorgenstadt, in southern Germany, represent in many cases the third and fourth generation of their families engaged in the industry, according to C. K. Halpern, New York. "LADIES AID" PUT ON FINE PROGRAM

Things seemed rather topsy turvy at the Methodist church Friday night when the ladies aid put on a big humorous program. Twenty men of the church dressed like women (some of them very pretty, too) conducted a ladies aid. From the humorous minutes of the last meeting, the bits of gossip, reports of various committees, a short program before lunch, and the antics of John Zander, Jr., as Roland Kufus, and Carney Peterson as Margaret Lee, there were shouts of laughter.

Mrs. L. Johnson directed the Toonerville German band which was composed of women and men, and the make-up of all was splendid. Mrs. Melvin Gorden was the soloist.

Mrs. Louis Johnson as Tille Olson gave a musical reading which was clever, even to her costume. There were duets, trios, minstrel skits and readings, making a well balanced entertainment and a splendid lunch was served at the close.

Brigadier-General Edgar S. Jennings, former warden of Auburn State Prison, N. His denial to newspaper men of the "surrender note" which he wrote on December 11, when the convicts held him prisoner, while they rioted for freedom, played an important role in the proceedings.

AVOID THAT FUTURE SHADOW*

By refraining from over-indulgence, if you would maintain the modern figure of fashion

Women who prize the modern figure with its subtle, seductive curves—men who would keep that trim, proper figure, eat healthfully but not immoderately. Banish excessiveness—eliminate abuses. Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. When tempted to excess, when your eyes are bigger than your stomach, reach for a Lucky instead. Coming events cast their shadows before. Avoid that future shadow by avoiding over-indulgence if you would maintain the lithe, youthful, modern figure.

Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette a man ever smoked, made of the finest tobacco—The Cream of the Crop—"IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so "TOASTING" not only removes impurities but adds to the flavor and improves the taste.

Your Throat Protection—against irritation—against cough.

*Be Moderate!... Don't jeopardize the modern form by drastic diets, harmful reducing girdles, fake reducing tablets or other quack "anti-fat" remedies condemned by the Medical profession! Millions of dollars each year are wasted on these ridiculous and dangerous nostrums. Be Sensible! Be Moderate! We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky" instead, you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

Regulators in Life

BRAINERD being a railway shop town, many of its people regulate the actions of the day by the shop whistle.

Others sleep through all the whistles and depend on the faithful alarm clock.

Some turn on the radio and listen to WCCO with its accurate split second announcements of, "It is now 20 and three-quarters minutes after 8 o'clock." As one radio devotee remarked, "When I hear the Albert Lea hatchery rooster crow, I know I should be at work, because that program starts at 8:30 sharp."

The housewife, who can hear radio all day, gets much pleasure and also food for thought from the various program broadcasts including household recipes, etc., style broadcasts, health hints and other things. She manages her work so that she can be near the radio when something important is to be announced.

Another epoch in the life of Brainerd people is the arrival of the paper boy. The only way peace is preserved in some families is to divide the paper among the household so every one can have something to read. And should snow and cold delay the carrier, then the equanimity of a household is upset until the paper arrives.

During winter the iceman's visits languish and in summer some of these new type refrigerators have cut into his route. But the butcher and groceryman travel their rounds and every one knows there is no soup for dinner when the butcher boy arrives at 11:30 a. m.

Visitors expected, but not with infallible train time schedule, are the gas meter and the water and light meter readers. Of course, if the door is locked, one receives an estimate from the water and light.

Sandwiched in between and causing ructions at times, because they travel no regular beat, are the agents and peddlers. A front door bell ring always causes the housewife to appear with a certain degree of formality as some important personage may be visiting her and after two or three agents have approached the household, her nerves are on edge for the rest of the day.

Shortly the housewife will entertain a new visitor, the census man, and 24 or more questions he will present to her and write the answers down in his book. The Dispatch has already published the gist of the questions, so that any household can start perusing the family Bible and other sources of information so as to be posted and get through with the ordeal.

Any family knows it requires a lot of argument to establish certain dates in the household.

Brainerd Sets Good Example

WITH the advent of the spacious new gymnasium at the high school, the school board has set a very good example by establishing moderate prices for admissions to the games.

The scale, and it is published so that other schools in the district may read it, is 35 cents for adults, 25 cents for high school students and 10 cents for grades. This scale, in large measure, has contributed to the ever increasing crowds at the gymnasium basketball games.

Harold Whitlock argued for the 10 cents admission and its wisdom has been fully demonstrated. At the last game total attendance was over 1200. The time is coming when every seat will be occupied and bleachers will be required at the north wall. In anticipation of that event, President R. W. Crust visited Crosby-Ironton high school to examine bleachers there.

If home games almost tax the seating capacity of the gymnasium, imagine what will happen when the tournaments are staged.

Brainerd's gymnasium is being brought to the attention of the whole district, in fact notice received is state-wide. It is causing the deepest interest in all phases of athletic training and is stimulating that school spirit in the most wonderful fashion.

Editors at St. Cloud

THE winter meeting of the Northern Minnesota Editorial Association will be held in St. Cloud on February 27 and 28.

Sam S. Haislet, secretary-field manager of the Minnesota Editorial Association, will be one of the speakers, taking as his topic "Cooperation Between Merchant and Publisher." Lou Benshoof of Detroit Lakes will speak on "Personal Contacts."

The meeting will begin at 8 p. m., February 27, when Fred Schilplin and Alvah Eastman of the St. Cloud Times-Journal-Press will entertain the delegates at a dinner and a tour of their plant.

The regular program will be held next day ending with the annual dinner of the association at 6:30 p. m.

Road Safety Needs

HERE are some definite things which will make highways faster and at the same time safer:

Increased highway widths; super-elevation of all highway curves; skid-proof road surfaces; elimination of all one-way bridges; "turn-outs" on which all buses may load and unload passengers; sidewalks for pedestrians along rural highways; illumination of all highways.

Here in Crow Wing county the desire of county commissioners to widen roads and facilitate snow removal is a great factor in the safety feature of winter driving. The snow plow follows the line of least resistance and in plowing a narrow road the plow smoothes off snow to a highway level, when in reality some sections may be off the highway and several feet in depth. This is discovered by the hapless motorist when he drives into such a trap.

HIGHWAY buses carried 4,273,701 passengers and traveled 12,607,769 miles in Minnesota last year, according to reports compiled by the State Railroad and Warehouse commission. Fifteen companies are engaged in transportation and use 273 buses with a total seating capacity of 7,629. They cover 6,765 miles of highway.

WARRIORS MAKE IT SIX STRAIGHT; DOWN LITTLE FALLS AND AITKIN

"Battle Royal," those two words come as close as any in the dictionary when it comes to expressing the sort of a contest which is to take place at Crosby this coming Friday when the Brainerd Braves journey down on the war path to their ancient foes and see who "scalps" the other when it comes to basketball. The Ore Diggers have always furnished strenuous opposition.

Both teams have been in the winning column for a number of weeks and as a result the victor should have the leeway in the matter of district recognition or even regional standing since both squads have conquered stiff competition in other sections.

Over the week-end the Blue and White regulars added two more victories to their list by subduing Little Falls, 38 to 23, and again smothering Aitkin by holding the long end of a 30 to 7 count.

Little Falls demonstrated that they are no easy aggregation to defeat by putting up a difficult stalling type of game. Nevertheless, the Warriors overcame this obstacle by snapping their fast breaking style of play from the first of the fray to the finish. At Aitkin the following evening, competition was not so keen but the score does not indicate the strength of the Aiktinites as they had a somewhat off night in the way of making points.

For the down the river quint, Konchal and Randall proved most dangerous as both are fairly good dribblers when the openings came their way, while Nickander was the outstanding player in the Aitkin line-up. Passing and sharp breaking distinguished the locals during the contests, the results naturally chalked up on close-in shots.

Extensive practices are being conducted by Coach Warren Kasch in preparation for the struggle with the range outfit this coming Friday.

B. H. S. Freshmen 11; Riverton 18

The preliminary to the Little Falls clash resulted in a win for the Riverton high over the Blue and White freshmen, 18 to 11, while the seconds came home from their trek to Pequot with the short end of a 30 to 14 score. Both games gave the players valuable experience in training them for future contests. Next week on Wednesday, the Freshmen are scheduled to journey to Riverton for their second tilt of the their young high school career.

Included in the freshmen line-up were: Wise, f; Garvey, f; Dahl, f; Swanson, c; White, g; McPherson, g; while the seconds consisted of Mayo, D. Guin, Templeton, Larson, Haas, Dryburgh. Assistant Coach Melby accompanied them.

MOD. HISTORY CLASSES WORK OUT CONTRACTS

Miss Walkup's Modern History classes are working on contracts concerned with the period of 1815 to 1830. Maps of Europe, themes on leading statesmen of the time, notes on 30 pages of outside reading and answers for questions given by the instructor may be handed in for credit. All the contract work is due Friday and no credit will be given for late work.

The work on the Brainonian Annual has progressed to the point where it will soon be necessary to contract with the printer for the number of books to be printed. For the past three years only as many [illegible] ordered as there were [illegible] there down [illegible] was a large [illegible] and others who wanted books put off paying for them thinking, "Oh, I can get one when they come out," and when there were none left over, the wailing wall had nothing on the steps of the B. H. S. If you want an Annual, and you know you will, pay for it now! Or if you can't pay the whole $1.25, pay 50c or 75c and pay the balance when you get your book. Don't forget if you don't order one within the next two weeks or see Claude Holden or Richard Ebert about saving one for you, you'll not get an Annual!

Father Walter Cleary, '18, Holds First Mass

Father T. Walter Cleary of the class of '18 celebrated his first Solemn Mass in his parish church of St. Francis of Assisi on Monday morning at ten o'clock, February third. Many of his former teachers and friends were present. Father Cleary is remembered particularly by his friends as having been a most popular and active member in class affairs. In his Senior year he took leading part in the class play, "The Man on the Box." The high scholo is proud to have him as an alumnus and wishes him every blessing.

EXCHANGE

Little Falls must not be so enthusiastic about declamation work as the students are here. In their paper—The Comet's Tale—it said that nearly as much interest has been shown so far this year but it is the hope of those in charge that more students will sign up.

Led by the school band directed by Mr. La Meter the student body participated in the pep fest held in the gymnasium Thursday after school.

While being directed through songs and yells by the cheer leaders, Warren Golemboski and Hallet Clarkson, the Warriors made their appearance in their new blue and white suits and went through a few plays, much to the students approval.

COLONEL E. M. NORTON TALKS TO B. H. S. BOYS

Colonel E. M. Norton set forth a great number of interesting facts concerning the Citizens' Military Training Camp, in a short address during the twenty minute study period last Wednesday, and invited all the boys of proper age to attend.

The particular camp for the district is situated at Fort Snelling near Minneapolis and is held during the month of August.

All boys over the age of 16 are privileged to attend absolutely free of charge even down to transportation both ways and complete uniforms. Besides the excellent training obtained every boy receives an ample share of good times. The camp is well supplied with equipment for every sport from boxing and football to tennis and swimming. The assurance that an abundance of good, wholesome food is provided throughout the stay is verified by the statement that "3000 pounds more of boy leaves the camp each year than went into it owing to the average gain of 3 pounds per boy during the month's stay in camp."

The popularity of the camps in the past has spread rapidly until now there are some fifty such throughout the United States and each succeeding year shows greater gains in training and benefits desired.

Faculty Team Makes Own Basketball Rules

Basketball rules governing regular high school contest are to be relegated to limbo, or thereabouts, when the faculty aggregation plays Coach Kasch's third (or was it to be the seventh?) team. New rules prepared for the great event are as follows:

1. Everyone must be on time promptly at 7:20.
2. Each team must have no more than ten substitutes.
3. Chewing of snuff on both sides is prohibited.
4. Each member cannot have more than 14 personal fouls or less than 28 technicals.
5. Flying tackling with intent to capture the ball is permitted if the referee is informed five minutes beforehand.
6. The referee is not to be slugged with sandbags in case of disputes.
7. Carrying the ball more than ten steps is permitted providing that the offender uses a combination of the clog and the charleston.
8. Use of classroom language is strictly prohibited.
9. Violation of any rule will carry the gunishment of having to sing a piano solo.

REBOUNDS

According to all indications a record crowd is to witness the game on the range this Friday. If seating becomes a pressing problem, then Crosby might adopt Staples' method of handling the over flow, that of lining the well with shelves that present a "chicken coop" appearance.

* * *

To date the Brainerd braves have won seven games and lost three whica makes a percentage of 700. Those who defeated the "chiefs" were Alumni, Bemidji, and Crosby-Ironton.

Vocal backing is certainly not lacking when it comes to cheering for the basketeers and that along with Roy's Pep Band and collegiate cheer drills puts Brainerd's rooting on a par if not superior to any high in the state.

* * *

Concerning condition the locals have to date taken a total of 15 time-outs to their opponents 19.

* * *

Benny Foster has tentatively decided to become a salesman, that is if provision can be made to have expenses taken care of that would equal the last road trip, especially in the way of meals.

* * *

Bridge has certainly its followers as Coach Kasch, Art Hautala, Benny Foster and Nathon Schuety will attest. These two pairs will take on all comers, but first they have to stage their own play off as Nate and Art still claim they are better than their opponents.

Since Alexandria wished us good luck in the St. Cloud game, we in turn hope they come out successfully in their game with Glenwood this week end.

* * *

Total time outs in last eight games: Brainerd high, 13; opponents, 13.

* * *

To date the Warriors have beat Pine River, Staples, Aitkin, Alexandria, and St. Cloud Tech and lost to Bemidji, Crosby-Ironton and Alumni which puts the standing about 625 per cent.

* * *

YE EDITOR

Like Atlas of old, the Brainonian staff seemingly had the world on its shoulders last week before the special edition appeared. Afterward when the "world" had rolled away, the staff felt contentedly exhausted. But over the week-end, it gathered new ideas and was stimulated by loyalty to the weekly and to the school, into preparing the regular five-column Brianonian.

"Once the paper, always the paper." Thus it is that we present this week's Brainonian, with the knowledge that the paper must be printed regardless of the number of special editions we may publish. One of these will, we hope, make its appearance in the not-too-far-away future. We are anticipating its publication even though we have not fully recovered from the previous one.

Albert Rathert Lauded For 'U' Publicity Work

Albert Rathert, '25, now attending the University of Minnesota acted as chairman of the general arrangements and publicity committee for the International congress held at the University last week. Students, teachers and famous internationalists were present at this congress which discussed the theme "The American Dollar Abroad."

At the luncheon given Saturday noon for all delegates, Harvey Pinney, university instructor and general manager of the congress, paid tribute to Mr. Rathert's work. "Without him," said Mr. Pinney, "This congress could not have been the success that it has been.

Now don't git me rong furst thing I ain't criticizin'. No, sir, I think the new buildin' is just wonnaful. I think I'd be purty safe in sayin' it's one of the best lookin' high skule in the state. But the skule bord fergot somethin'. They remembered the girruls' gym lockers, an' the movie perjeckshun room in the auditorium, an' they remembered our Brainonian hdqrs. But they did fergit somethin'. They fergot to furnish gides. An' bulleve me, we shure needed 'em the furst coupla days. Sum uv us still need 'em, I'm thinkin'. Its turrible to be sittin' nice an' peaceful in a Cicero class an' hav some little Freshman bust in an' say "O pahdon—I was huntin' for Miss Spencer's General Science class. I musta got on the wrong floor."

But it's still more disturbin' to walk into a English I class in room 104 when wat ya want is a shorthand class in 304. An' then the way all the littul Freshmen giggle when yu look blanish kinda an' say "Oh—ah—I—thot I was on the third floor!" You know how Freshmen r that way. Think it's amusin' to see a upper classman git embarissed.

So really, I think ther shud be somebody stashuned on each floor an' at each stairway tu announce wot floor yer on an' where u go tu git where ya wanta be an' so on. Wot about it? Maybe if we got enuf "ayes" from u students they might furnish sum ways uv showin' us where we r.

Let Webster Do It!

Now that everyone is comfortably and happily settled in the new building with all sorrows of the past turned into joys, a serious problem has just arisen to harass the faculty. Reading certain kinds of illegible handwriting, correcting papers, imparting knowledge, disciplining students—all these fade and die before the seriousness of this new situation. The questions which no one can answer are:

1. Should Glennadeane be spelled with or without the final e?
2. Is it Evelynne or Evalyn or Evelyn?
3. Shall Marie be Marie or Maryе?
4. Is Margaret, Marguerite or just Margey?
5. Who is Silvia or Sylvia?

Any information submitted will be cheerfully and gratefully accepted.

ENGLISH III STUDENTS PREPARE FOR DEBATE

As in former years, Miss Olson's English III students are preparing for debates which will be conducted in about two weeks at the Washington high school.

Each class has been divided into several groups which in turn have been separated to form two opposing teams: one the affirmative, the other the negative. Miss Olson has given to each class a complete outline of debating procedure, and although the strictest rules cannot always be carried out in a high school English course, the general principles of debate will be studied and put into practice.

Each group was permitted to select its own question on which to debate, to decide upon the order of speakers, and to work out the chief methods of attack. As much preparation will be necessary, considerable time will have to be spent on it. While this work is being done outside of class, the English III classes will begin the reading of Shakespeare's "Hamlet."

B. H. S. Students Hear Governor at Dedication

Although high school students were disappointed in not hearing Governor Theodore Christianson last Tuesday afternoon as was expected, they were fortunate enough to be present at dedication ceremonies held in the auditorium last Tuesday night to listen to the governor at that time. Seniors were permitted to enter the main auditorium while underclassmen formed part of an overflow audience in the gymnasium.

In addition to this feature of the program, students heard J. M. McConnell, commissioner of education, the high school orchestra and glee club, Dr. Irving Badeaux and the Brainerd Choral club. Robert W. Crust, president of the school board gave a history of the new school and introduced a part of the program, while Supt. W. C. Cobb and George LaBar introduced Mr. McConnell and the governor, respectively.

Bookkeeping Students Study Banking Methods

Beginning with the new sets in bookkeeping Howard Beggs, Alfred Abrahamson, and John Chadbourne are to act as bankers of the various classes. The duties of the bankers will include that of keeping a record of all banking sheets filed by each student. The study of partnership work will also be taken up in the near future. Much of the special work for the classes has been done by Jennie Babcock.

The bookkeeping students together with their instructor Miss Torgerson, hope to start a club, that they might make inspection tours of the various Brainerd offices and banks to consider the methods, books and office equipment used. If this is done, articles dealing with these trips will be written up from time to time by the class.

Regulators in Life

BRAINERD being a railway shop town, many of its people regulate the actions of the day by the shop whistle.

Some turn on the radio and listen to WCCO with its accurate split second announcements of, "It is now 20 and three-quarters minutes after 8 o'clock." As one radio devotee remarked, "When I hear the Albert Lea hatchery rooster crow, I know I should be at work, because that program starts at 8:30 sharp."

The housewife, who can hear radio all day, gets much pleasure and also food for thought from the various program broadcasts including household recipes, etc., style broadcasts, health hints and other things. She manages her work so that she can be near the radio when something important is to be announced.

Another epoch in the life of Brainerd people is the arrival of the paper boy. The only way peace is preserved in some families is to divide the paper among the household so every one can have something to read. And should snow and cold delay the carrier, then the equanimity of a household is upset until the paper arrives.

During winter the iceman's visits languish and in summer some of these new type refrigerators have cut into his route. But the butcher and groceryman travel their rounds and every one knows there is no soup for dinner when the butcher boy arrives at 11:30 a. m.

Visitors expected, but not with infallible train time schedule, are the gas meter and the water and light meter readers. Of course, if the door is locked, one receives an estimate from the water and light.

Sandwiched in between and causing ructions at times, because they travel no regular beat, are the agents and peddlers. A front door bell ring always causes the housewife to appear with a certain degree of formality as some important personage may be visiting her and after two or three agents have approached the household, her nerves are on edge for the rest of the day.

Shortly the housewife will entertain a new visitor, the census man, and 24 or more questions he will present to her and write the answers down in his book. The Dispatch has already published the gist of the questions, so that any household can start perusing the family Bible and other sources of information so as to be posted and get through with the ordeal.

Any family knows it requires a lot of argument to establish certain dates in the household.

Brainerd Sets Good Example

WITH the advent of the spacious new gymnasium at the high school, the school board has set a very good example by establishing moderate prices for admissions to the games.

The scale, and it is published so that other schools in the district may read it, is 35 cents for adults, 25 cents for high school students and 10 cents for grades. This scale, in large measure, has contributed to the ever increasing crowds at the gymnasium basketball games.

Harold Whitlock argued for the 10 cents admission and its wisdom has been fully demonstrated. At the last game total attendance was over 1200. The time is coming when every seat will be occupied and bleachers will be required at the north wall. In anticipation of that event, President R. W. Crust visited Crosby-Ironton high school to examine bleachers there.

If home games almost tax the seating capacity of the gymnasium, imagine what will happen when the tournaments are staged.

Brainerd's gymnasium is being brought to the attention of the whole district, in fact notice received is state-wide. It is causing the deepest interest in all phases of athletic training and is stimulating that school spirit in the most wonderful fashion.

Editors at St. Cloud

The regular program will be held next day ending with the annual dinner of the association at 6:30 p. m.

Road Safety Needs

Increased highway widths; super-elevation of all highway curves; skid-proof road surfaces; elimination of all one-way bridges; "turn-outs" on which all buses may load and unload passengers; sidewalks for pedestrians along rural highways; illumination of all highways.

Here in Crow Wing county the desire of county commissioners to widen roads and facilitate snow removal is a great factor in the safety feature of winter driving. The snow plow follows the line of least resistance and in plowing a narrow road the plow smoothes off snow to a highway level, when in reality some sections may be off the highway and several feet in depth. This is discovered by the hapless motorist when he drives into such a trap.

HIGHWAY buses carried 4,273,701 passengers and traveled 12,607,769 miles in Minnesota last year, according to reports compiled by the State Railroad and Warehouse commission. Fifteen companies are engaged in transportation and use 273 buses with a total seating capacity of 7,629. They cover 6,765 miles of highway.

WARRIORS MAKE IT SIX STRAIGHT; DOWN LITTLE FALLS AND AITKIN

"Battle Royal," those two words come as close as any in the dictionary when it comes to expressing the sort of a contest which is to take place at Crosby this coming Friday when the Brainerd Braves journey down on the war path to their ancient foes and see who "scalps" the other when it comes to basketball. The Ore Diggers have always furnished strenuous opposition.

Both teams have been in the winning column for a number of weeks and as a result the victor should have the leeway in the matter of district recognition or even regional standing since both squads have conquered stiff competition in other sections.

Over the week-end the Blue and White regulars added two more victories to their list by subduing Little Falls, 38 to 23, and again smothering Aitkin by holding the long end of a 30 to 7 count.

Little Falls demonstrated that they are no easy aggregation to defeat by putting up a difficult stalling type of game. Nevertheless, the Warriors overcame this obstacle by snapping their fast breaking style of play from the first of the fray to the finish. At Aitkin the following evening, competition was not so keen but the score does not indicate the strength of the Aiktinites as they had a somewhat off night in the way of making points.

For the down the river quint, Konchal and Randall proved most dangerous as both are fairly good dribblers when the openings came their way, while Nickander was the outstanding player in the Aitkin line-up. Passing and sharp breaking distinguished the locals during the contests, the results naturally chalked up on close-in shots.

Extensive practices are being conducted by Coach Warren Kasch in preparation for the struggle with the range outfit this coming Friday.

B. H. S. Freshmen 11; Riverton 18

The preliminary to the Little Falls clash resulted in a win for the Riverton high over the Blue and White freshmen, 18 to 11, while the seconds came home from their trek to Pequot with the short end of a 30 to 14 score. Both games gave the players valuable experience in training them for future contests. Next week on Wednesday, the Freshmen are scheduled to journey to Riverton for their second tilt of the their young high school career.

Included in the freshmen line-up were: Wise, f; Garvey, f; Dahl, f; Swanson, c; White, g; McPherson, g; while the seconds consisted of Mayo, D. Guin, Templeton, Larson, Haas, Dryburgh. Assistant Coach Melby accompanied them.

MOD. HISTORY CLASSES WORK OUT CONTRACTS

Miss Walkup's Modern History classes are working on contracts concerned with the period of 1815 to 1830. Maps of Europe, themes on leading statesmen of the time, notes on 30 pages of outside reading and answers for questions given by the instructor may be handed in for credit. All the contract work is due Friday and no credit will be given for late work.

The work on the Brainonian Annual has progressed to the point where it will soon be necessary to contract with the printer for the number of books to be printed. For the past three years only as many [illegible] ordered as there were down [illegible] There was a large [illegible] and others who wanted books put off paying for them thinking, "Oh, I can get one when they come out," and when there were none left over, the wailing wall had nothing on the steps of the B. H. S. If you want an Annual, and you know you will, pay for it now! Or if you can't pay the whole $1.25, pay 50c or 75c and pay the balance when you get your book. Don't forget if you don't order one within the next two weeks or see Claude Holden or Richard Ebert about saving one for you, you'll not get an Annual!

Father Walter Cleary, '18, Holds First Mass

Father T. Walter Cleary of the class of '18 celebrated his first Solemn Mass in his parish church of St. Francis of Assisi on Monday morning at ten o'clock, February third. Many of his former teachers and friends were present. Father Cleary is remembered particularly by his friends as having been a most popular and active member in class affairs. In his Senior year he took leading part in the class play. "The Man on the Box." The high scholo is proud to have him as an alumnus and wishes him every blessing.

EXCHANGE

Little Falls must not be so enthusiastic about declamation work as the students are here. In their paper—The Comet's Tale—it said that nearly as much interest has been shown so far this year but it is the hope of those in charge that more students will sign up.

Band Leads Pep Fest Held in Gym Thursday

Led by the school band directed by Mr. La Meter the student body participated in the pep fest held in the gymnasium Thursday after school.

While being directed through songs and yells by the cheer leaders, Warren Golemboski and Hallet Clarkson, the Warriors made their appearance in their new blue and white suits and went through a few plays, much to the students approval.

COLONEL E. M. NORTON TALKS TO B. H. S. BOYS

Colonel E. M. Norton set forth a great number of interesting facts concerning the Citizens' Military Training Camp, in a short address during the twenty minute study period last Wednesday, and invited all the boys of proper age to attend.

The particular camp for the district is situated at Fort Snelling near Minneapolis and is held during the month of August.

All boys over the age of 16 are privileged to attend absolutely free of charge even down to transportation both ways and complete uniforms. Besides the excellent training obtained every boy receives an ample share of good times. The camp is well supplied with equipment for every sport from boxing and football to tennis and swimming. The assurance that an abundance of good, wholesome food is provided throughout the stay is verified by the statement that "3000 pounds more of boy leaves the camp each year than went into it owing to the average gain of 3 pounds per boy during the month's stay in camp."

The popularity of the camps in the past has spread rapidly until now there are some fifty such throughout the United States and each succeeding year shows greater gains in training and benefits desired.

Faculty Team Makes Own Basketball Rules

Basketball rules governing regular high school contest are to be relegated to limbo, or thereabouts, when the faculty aggregation plays Coach Kasch's third (or was it to be the seventh?) team. New rules prepared for the great event are as follows:

1. Everyone must be on time promptly at 7:20.
2. Each team must have no more than ten substitutes.
3. Chewing of snuff on both sides is prohibited.
4. Each member cannot have more than 14 personal fouls or less than 28 technicals.
5. Flying tackling with intent to capture the ball is permitted if the referee is informed five minutes beforehand.
6. The referee is not to be slugged with sandbags in case of disputes.
7. Carrying the ball more than ten steps is permitted providing that the offender uses a combination of the clog and the charleston.
8. Use of classroom language is strictly prohibited.
9. Violation of any rule will carry the punishment of having to sing a piano solo.

REBOUNDS

According to all indications a record crowd is to witness the game on the range this Friday. If seating becomes a pressing problem, then Crosby might adopt Staples' method of handling the over flow, that of lining the well with shelves that present a "chicken coop" appearance.

* * *

To date the Brainerd braves have won seven games and lost three which makes a percentage of 700. Those who defeated the "chiefs" were Alumni, Bemidji, and Crosby-Ironton.

* * *

Vocal backing is certainly not lacking when it comes to cheering for the basketeers and that along with Roy's Pep Band and collegiate cheer drills puts Brainerd's rooting on a par if not superior to any high in the state.

* * *

Concerning condition the locals have to date taken a total of 15 time-outs to their opponents 19.

* * *

Benny Foster has tentatively decided to become a salesman, that is if provision can be made to have expenses taken care of that would equal the last road trip, especially in the way of meals.

* * *

Bridge has certainly its followers as Coach Kasch, Art Hautala, Benny Foster and Nathon Schuety will attest. These two pairs will take on all comers, but first they have to stage their own play off as Nate and Art still claim they are better than their opponents.

Since Alexandria wished us good luck in the St. Cloud game, we in turn hope they come out successfully in their game with Glenwood this week end.

Total time outs in last eight games: Brainerd high, 13; opponents, 13.

* * *

To date the Warriors have beat Pine River, Staples, Aitkin, Alexandria, and St. Cloud Tech and lost to Bemidji, Crosby-Ironton and Alumni which puts the standing about 625 per cent.

* * *

"Elizabeth"—Marjorie Forsberg.

The meeting was presided over by Rose Gudmanson and judged by Mrs. C. L. Burnett, Mrs. A. C. Weber, Mrs. W. C. Cobb, Mrs. J. A. Thabse Sr., Mrs. C. D. McKay and Mrs. W. C. Rasch.

The contestants had been coached by Miss Mathis, Miss. Haug, Miss Oerting, Miss Graham, Miss Olson, Miss Schow, Miss Tornstrom and Miss Walkup prior to the contest.

At the end of the recitations Howard Gile, accompanied by Miss Rickard, played a trombone solo and Arline Hagberg a piano solo. Both of these musicians were enthusiastically encored.

Next Monday night the humorous and oratorical sections will be presented. These will be judged by the Rev. J. R. Michaelson, D. H. Fullerton, Arthur J. Sullivan, Miss Milena Vanaseck of the Harrison school, Miss Mary Walsh of the Harrison school, Miss Alta Franklin and Dr. A. K. Cohen.

YE EDITOR

Like Atlas of old, the Brainonian staff seemingly had the world on its shoulders last week before the special edition appeared. Afterward when the "world" had rolled away, the staff felt contentedly exhausted. But over the week-end, it gathered new ideas and was stimulated by loyalty to the weekly and to the school, into preparing the regular five-column Brianonian.

"Once the paper, always the paper." Thus it is that we present this week's Brainonian, with the knowledge that the paper must be printed regardless of the number of special editions we may publish. One of these will, we hope, make its appearance in the not-too-far-away future. We are anticipating its publication even though we have not fully recovered from the previous one.

Albert Rathert Lauded For 'U' Publicity Work

Albert Rathert, '25, now attending the University of Minnesota, acted as chairman of the general arrangements and publicity committee for the International congress held at the University last week. Students, teachers and famous internationalists were present at this congress which discussed the theme "The American Dollar Abroad."

At the luncheon given Saturday noon for all delegates, Harvey Pinney, university instructor and general manager of the congress, paid tribute to Mr. Rathert's work. "Without him," said Mr. Pinney, "This congress could not have been the success that it has been.

Let Webster Do It!

Now that everyone is comfortably and happily settled in the new building with all sorrows of the past turned into joys, a serious problem has just arisen to harass the faculty. Reading certain kinds of illegible handwriting, correcting papers, imparting knowledge, disciplining students—all these fade and die before the seriousness of this new situation. The questions which no one can answer are:

1. Should Glennadeane be spelled with or without the final e?
2. Is it Evelynne or Evalyn or Evelyn?
3. Shall Marie be Marie or Marye?
4. Is Margaret, Marguerite or just Margey?
5. Who is Silvia or Sylvia?

Any information submitted will be cheerfully and gratefully accepted.

As in former years, Miss Olson's English III students are preparing for debates which will be conducted in about two weeks at the Washington high school.

Each class has been divided into several groups which in turn have been separated to form two opposing teams: one the affirmative, the other the negative. Miss Olson has given to each class a complete outline of debating procedure, and although the strictest rules cannot always be carried out in a high school English course, the general principles of debate will be studied and put into practice.

Each group was permitted to select its own question on which to debate, to decide upon the order of speakers, and to work out the chief methods of attack. As much preparation will be necessary, considerable time will have to be spent on it. While this work is being done outside of class, the English III classes will begin the reading of Shakespeare's "Hamlet."

B. H. S. Students Hear Governor at Dedication

Although high school students were disappointed in not hearing Governor Theodore Christianson last Tuesday afternoon as was expected, they were fortunate enough to be present at dedication ceremonies held in the auditorium last Tuesday night to listen to the governor at that time. Seniors were permitted to enter the main auditorium while underclassmen formed part of an overflow audience in the gymnasium.

In addition to this feature of the program, students heard J. M. McConnell, commissioner of education, the high school orchestra and glee club, Dr. Irving Badeaux and the Brainerd Choral club. Robert W. Crust, president of the school board gave a history of the new school and introduced a part of the program, while Supt. W. C. Cobb and George LaBar introduced Mr. McConnell and the governor, respectively.

Bookkeeping Students Study Banking Methods

Beginning with the new sets in bookkeeping Howard Beggs, Alfred Abrahamson, and John Chadbourne are to act as bankers of the various classes. The duties of the bankers will include that of keeping a record of all banking sheets filed by each student. The study of partnership work will also be taken up in the near future. Much of the special work for the classes has been done by Jennie Babcock.

The bookkeeping students together with their instructor Miss Torgerson, hope to start a club, that they might make inspection tours of the various Brainerd offices and banks to consider the methods, books and office equipment used. If this is done, articles dealing with these trips will be written up from time to time by the class.

CLIPPING COUPONS INSTEAD OF SMACKING HOMERS NOT TO RUTH'S LIKING

EVERYTHING IN SALARY LINE TO BE STRAIGHTENED OUT BEFORE APRIL 15

By FRANK GETTY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, Feb. 4.—If there is anywhere a baseball fan who imagines that Babe Ruth is going to spend the current year clipping coupons instead of smacking homers, let him set his mind at rest.

It is true that the Babe has threatened to do so, if his salary demands are not met, but long before the first ball is shot down the groove to open the 1930 season Ruth and his boss will have arrived at a mutually satisfactory decision.

Despite the home run kings' defy, demanding a salary of $85,000 a year and the insistence of the Yankees that they will not pay the sum demanded, everything will be straightened out before April 15.

The rest is ballyhoo.

The Babe attempted to startle the baseball world yesterday with an announcement that he would turn his broad back upon the national pastime unless he received his price. Some weeks previous, the Yankees had their inning, announcing that they would pay so much and no more.

Both sides left the door open for the compromise which will be arrived at some few weeks before the coming season opens. In past years, these salary disputes of Babe versus the Yankees have come to be recognized as excellent publicity for all concerned.

Colonel Jacob Ruppert, the genial owner of the New York American League club, thus far has declined to comment upon the Babe's latest outburst. Ten days ago, he informed the United Press that he did not consider Ruth entitled to a three-year contract, and as a business man his stand is entirely reasonable. Ruth's legs may not last through three more seasons of major league strife.

What will happen in the present controversy, according to reliable information from inside sources, is that the Yankees will meet the home run king's demands for the coming season and will bargain with him thereafter.

In his statement to the United Press which created a nation-wide sensation yesterday, Babe Ruth asserted that if he were not paid $85,000 for the coming season he would retire and clip coupons. In the concluding paragraph of his statement, Ruth said he would "prefer to stick with the Yankees at $85,000 on a three-year contract."

The Babe did not, however, insist upon the three-year angle to the contract, and those in the know realize that it is this which chiefly worries Colonel Ruppert.

The ballyhoo will be kept up for some time, since it is good advertising for all concerned. But in the end you will find that Babe will be out there in right field for the Yankees when the season opens, and his salary will be the largest ever paid to a major league ball player.

A good many people weren't satisfied with the suggested name of "Warriors" for Coach Kasch's athletes. They felt that the name wasn't expressive enough — in other words that EVERY high school team fights, or is supposed to, and that didn't particularly distinguish Brainerd from any other school. They remind one of bulldogs because of the tenacity with which they hang on. In the true sense of the word, a warrior "fights and runs away, that he may live to fight another day," but a bulldog doesn't know when he is beaten. That's true of B. H. S. teams. They may taste defeat occasionally, but it's the final bell that whips them for they're in there fighting to the last gong. In our opinion, no better name could be given to Brainerd's high school athletic teams than "Bulldogs" because of the reasons enumerated above.

Nw, good fans, what are we supposed to do—sit down and cry when Babe Ruth says he won't return to baseball unless the Yankees pay him all the salary he demands? In the first place this is all a lot of apple sauce. Babe knows that he'll be very glad to play for $75,000 if that is all the Yankees will give him—he simply wants all of this balyh-hoo to swell the gate receipts at the Yankee stadium when he does put on a New York uniform this spring. And then Babe would have people believe that he is worth more to baseball than Herbert Hoover is to the United States for a year. He's got a good opinion of himself, hasn't he? The whole trouble is that the Yankees have been paying Ruth too much in the past. It's like crackerjack—the more you eat, the more you want.

FINAL EFFORTS MADE BY MANAGERS TO STRENGTHEN TEAMS BY TRADES

BROOKLYN SITUATION WOULD BE SERIOUS IF IT WERE NOT SO LUDICROUS

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, Feb. 4.—The last gathering of major league club owners and managers before the opening of the spring training season was held at the Hotel Commodore today when National League magnates adopted the 1930 schedule.

The season will open April 15 and close September 28.

Outside the meeting several managers attempted to make their final efforts to strengthen their clubs by trades.

At least two managers, Bill McKechnie of the Boston Braves and Dan Howley of the Cincinnati Reds, were willing to trade several players, but they had difficulty finding encouragement from any of the other clubs.

Some action was expected to be taken on the Brooklyn situation, which would be downright serious, if it were not quite so ludicrous.

Less than a month before the start of the training season, the Brooklyn club is still without a manager because two "hard-headed" and slightly elderly gentlemen refused to sit down at the same table and talk things over amicably.

Indications point to the re-election of Wilbert Robinson as manager and the election of Frank York to succeed Robinson as president if someone can keep "Uncle Robbie" and Judge Steve McKeever out of their childish argument for a good, solid hour.

At a meeting of the International League yesterday, President Charles Knapp of Baltimore appointed a committee composed of Walter Hapgood of Montreal, chairman, Warren C. Giles of Rochester, and George M. Weiss of Baltimore to confer with similar committees from the American Association and Pacific Coast League at Chicago in June in regard to rewriting the present major-minor agreement.

The three class AA leagues feel that several changes are needed in the present agreement, which expires at the close of the 1931 season.

Three-Cushion Thrillers

By HARDIN BURNLEY

IN MORE than twenty years of three-cushion billiards competition, World's Champion Johnny Layton has never finished worse than second in championship play! The one-time Sedalia, Mo., carpenter—who applies the working principles of his tool chest squares to the all-important angles of billiards—has won the big title five times, recently winning it at New York City for the third year in succession!

Mathematical precision, perfect stroking, and deliberate calm combine to make the ruddy-faced, keen-eyed Layton perhaps the greatest 3-cushion master ever known. This Sedalian super star plays the diamond inlays with astronomical accuracy. Great at his chosen game for two decades, Johnny seems to improve with the years.

And even had Willie Hoppe entered that recent championship, well—the score analysis tends to show that Layton probably would have retained his title anyway. He brought his play to an ideal championship climax by defeating Otto Reiselt of Philadelphia, in the 43-inning final game, 50-32. He made a run of 8 on his next to the last turn at the table.

Layton lost but one match during that tourney, Augie Kieckhefer, Milwaukee left-hander, checking the champion, 50-38

Runner-up to Layton in that recent tournament was Allen Hall, young Chicagoan, whose most highly prized cue was presented to him by his teacher, the famous fancy shot—Charles Peterson. The latter had inscribed on the cue's silver band the legend: "To the future Three-Cushion Champion of the World."

Hall won second place in a playoff with Reiselt. Of all the new big stars at three cushions, Peterson's former pupil seems to be the most promising. The greatest of all trick shots met Hall about six years ago when "Al" was a military academy student with local fame as a junior billiardist. In the Spring of 1924, Peterson had Hall enter the Midwestern Amateur Balkline championship which he captured with seven straight victories. Against Charlie's advice, "Al" turned professional and has been progressing ever since until his recent play stamps him as a master.

Three cushions rightly is reputed to be the most strenuous of billiards since it requires much power of stroke. Yet the game does not demand youth necessarily as Champion Layton obviously demonstrates. He should add several title triumphs to his list unless some comer like Allen Hall strokes his way to the top. Yes, the runner up this year may justify Peterson's fond cue prediction at the next championship but—not if ol' Johnny Layton can prevent it!

Less than a month before the start of the training season, the Brooklyn club is still without a manager because two "hard-headed" and slightly elderly gentlemen refused to sit down at the same table and talk things over amicably.

Indications point to the re-election of Wilbert Robinson as manager and the election of Frank York to succeed Robinson as president if someone can keep "Uncle Robbie" and Judge Steve McKeever out of their childish argument for a good, solid hour.

At a meeting of the International League yesterday, President Charles Knapp of Baltimore appointed a committee composed of Walter Hapgood of Montreal, chairman, Warren C. Giles of Rochester, and George M. Weiss of Baltimore to confer with similar committees from the American Association and Pacific Coast League at Chicago in June in regard to rewriting the present major-minor agreement.

The three class AA leagues feel that several changes are needed in the present agreement, which expires at the close of the 1931 season.

Cussedness?

Three-Cushion Thrillers

By HARDIN BURNLEY

IN MORE than twenty years of three-cushion billiards competition, World's Champion Johnny Layton has never finished worse than second in championship play! The one-time Sedalia, Mo., carpenter—who applies the working principles of his tool chest squares to the all-important angles of billiards—has won the big title five times, recently winning it at New York City for the third year in succession!

Mathematical precision, perfect stroking, and deliberate calm combine to make the ruddy-faced, keen-eyed Layton perhaps the greatest 3-cushion master ever known. This Sedalian super star plays the diamond inlays with astronomical accuracy. Great at his chosen game for two decades, Johnny seems to improve with the years.

And even had Willie Hoppe entered that recent championship, well—the score analysis tends to show that Layton probably would have retained his title anyway. He brought his play to an ideal championship climax by defeating Otto Reiselt of Philadelphia, in the 43-inning final game, 50-32. He made a run of 8 on his next to the last turn at the table.

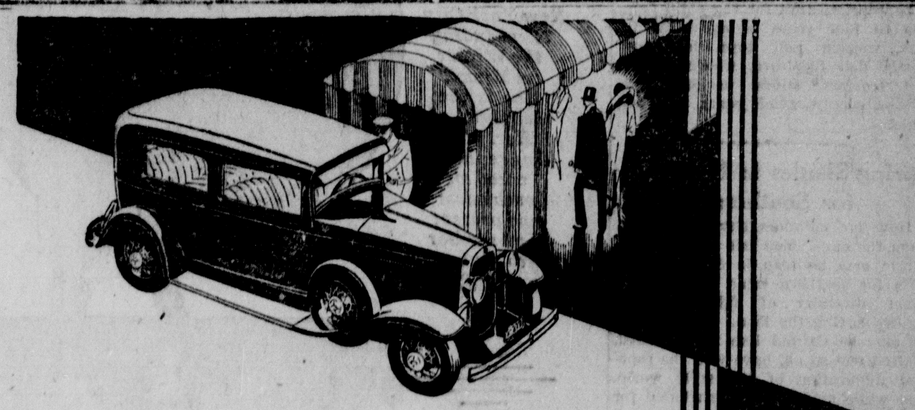

Layton lost but one match during that tourney, Augie Kieckhefer, Milwaukee left-hander, checking the champion, 50-38

Runner-up to Layton in that recent tournament was Allen Hall, young Chicagoan, whose most highly prized cue was presented to him by his teacher, the famous fancy shot—Charles Peterson. The latter had inscribed on the cue's silver band the legend: "To the future Three-Cushion Champion of the World."

Hall won second place in a playoff with Reiselt. Of all the new big stars at three cushions, Peterson's former pupil seems to be the most promising. The greatest of all trick shots met Hall about six years ago when "Al" was a military academy student with local fame as a junior billiardist. In the Spring of 1924, Peterson had Hall enter the Midwestern Amateur Balkline championship which he captured with seven straight victories. Against Charlie's advice, "Al" turned professional and has been progressing ever since until his recent play stamps him as a master.

Three cushions rightly is reputed to be the most strenuous of billiards since it requires much power of stroke. Yet the game does not demand youth necessarily as Champion Layton obviously demonstrates. He should add several title triumphs to his list unless some comer like Allen Hall strokes his way to the top. Yes, the runner up this year may justify Peterson's fond cue prediction at the next championship but—not if ol' Johnny Layton can prevent it!

ON REARING CHILDREN from CRIB TO COLLEGE

Compiled by the Editors of THE PARENTS' MAGAZINE

The mother's health, for some reason, is supposed to take care of itself. It is only the occasional mother who matches Johnnie's yearly physical examination with one for herself or who takes herself to the dentist along with Susan. Her teeth as well as Sammie's require a daily ration of milk and vegetables. Sunlight and play are just as valuable for her as for the children. Yet it is all too easy for mother to neglect herself in her eagerness to make sure that her family have everything that they need.

It is best to start training the baby's hair when he is very small. Brush the soft hair the wrong way, wetting it just enough to hold it and curl the longer hair on top of the head over the finger. Then, as the child grows older, never miss an opportunity to coax along whatever natural wave appears. Do not let the hair grow too long, for its weight pulls down and lessens the tendency to curl.

The purpose of punishment doubtless is to improve the individual. But such corrective punishment must take on the character of training. And when adequate training comes in, punishment steps out.

To equip her kitchen in such a way that her work is easier and she has more time to spend with her children should be the aim of every mother. A breakfast nook saves mother steps, and electrical equipment, orange juice extractor, and a step-stool are good labor saving devices.

Colds occur when the resistance of the delicate mucous membranes of the nose and throat is lowered so that they become susceptible to attack by disease germs. Many well persons carry in their noses and throats the germs which produce colds. These germs, however, do no damage until the resistance is lowered.

Iron and copper are the perfect comrades and are essential to building up the blood stream. What foodstuffs supply these substances? Liver contains both of them. In fact calves' liver has more copper than any other food. Beef liver ranks second. Cereals, especially the whole grain ones, are valuable sources of copper, while the leafy vegetables, such as spinach and lettuce, which are rich in iron, have to take a back seat when copper is considered.

Appropriate toys for the child from two to four years of age: Kiddie cars, wooden pull toys, dolls, and sturdy doll furniture, wooden trains and tractors, slides, sandbox, low swings, seesaw, small boats, push engines.

Spring Shades in Hats for Southern Resorts

How far milliners have progressed from the days when felt was the only fabric may be seen in collections of hats for southern wear. There is a great diversity of fabric, pliable straws having the lead. Such straws as may be treated like felts, tucked, plaited and so on, have won the especial admiration of the style world, and while models are remarkable for a greater width of brim, there are endless berets and such types intended for resort vogue.

Spring colors begin to clarify. Such tones as are shown for the winter resort season—a preclude to spring—include blues, some of which have a purple tonality. Others border on a light navy, while others again are linen blues. Greens of course are highlighted, both in yellowish and bluish cast, and pinks seem to be especially liked for Palm Beach.

Check Trimming Is Used on Little House Dress

Check trimming is liked on house dresses this season. Here is shown a charming little frock worn by a popular movie actress.

3 DANCING BEAUTIES in "RIO RITA"

"Rio Rita," Radio Pictures' all-talking, singing and dancing musical extravaganza, based on the famous Ziegfeld musical comedy success, opened a three day engagement at the Paramount theatre last night. In the leading roles are Bebe Daniels, as the alluring, beautiful Rita; John Boles, who scored a hit in "The Desert Song" and Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey, the latter two, popular comedians along the Great White Way.

To begin with, "Rio Rita" is a gay, tuneful production. From beginning to end, it is entertainment that moves along at a rapid pace, in which song, dance and picturesque scenes are the effective means of expression. And to top it off, Miss Daniels, forsaking the slap-stick comedy roles that once made her so popular, emerges as one of the most accomplished actresses on the screen today. Miss Daniels proves to be a singer of charm and natural ability; her singing in this picture being one of its outstanding features. And to make everything complete, Miss Daniels as the alluring Rita fits the type to perfection. As usual with her, she is vivacious, gay and altogether charming.

Nature's Beauties Set Off Brazilian Capital

Rio presents to the traveler entering its harbor the most beautiful setting in the world. Nature was infinitely bountiful and it was no mishap that the people built up a beautiful city to emulate the example. From the harbor the city presents at the water line a solid white against the blue of the water.

Fascinated a couple of years ago by a description of the scene—although very meager—written by a newspaper man, it is passed along as not only authentic but beautiful and diverting:

"Rio de Janeiro is one city in the world that does not disappoint. No matter what a person has read or been told about it, or what preconception he has evolved out of his own inner consciousness, no one is ever let down by seeing Rio in the flesh. He will find it different from his imagination, of course, but not disappointing. The bay is 16½ nautical miles long and 12 nautical miles wide, and is as blue in the sunshine as the aquamarines dug from the hillsides of the neighboring state of Minas Gereas. At other times it is an emerald, an amathyst or a black pearl, depending on the light conditions. It is big enough to provide anchorage for all the navies of the world, and still have room enough for a reconstruction of the battle of Jutland. It has as many arms and reaches as far as a first baseman."

PLUCKED FROM THE AIR

By G. B. WINSTEAD
United Press Radio Editor

New York, Feb. 4.—Radio broadcasters in their efforts to ascertain just what kind of entertainment the public wants have turned to scientific testing apparatus.

Heart reaction tests of a group of prominent personages will be taken in the studios of the Columbia Broadcasting system Thursday during presentation of an especially selected program.

The tests are made possible by recent perfection in the Western Electric laboratories of the electrical multiple stethoscope, and Columbia officials, agreeing with leading medical experts that the "heart does not lie," expect to obtain a truthful record of any reactions from the selected patients.

Nathaniel Shilkret, recording artist will conduct the 200th performance of the Eveready hour orchestra at 8 p. m. today from WEAF and the NBC network.

"Ole Man River" from "Show Boat" will be Walter Stevenson's featured number on the Nunn-Bush program over the Quality network—WOR, WLW and WMAQ—at 8:30 p. m. today.

Another anniversary on the air will be observed today when Paul Whiteman and his Old Gold orchestra appear at 8 p. m., with Harry Richman as guest artist. The program will originate in Hollywood, but Richman will sing several songs from WABC the Columbia network's New York station.

Now Millions More Stop "Dosing" Colds

Better External Treatment Wins New Users All Over the World

Every year since the introduction of Vicks VapoRub, more and more people have given up the old-fashioned way of "dosing" colds and turned to this modern external method. Today, the whole trend of medical practice is away from needless "dosing."

Mothers of young children especially appreciate Vicks because there's nothing to swallow, and, of course, nothing to upset delicate stomachs. Just rubbed on, its medicated vapors are released by the heat of the body and inhaled direct to the inflamed air-passages. At the same time Vicks acts through the skin like a poultice or plaster, "drawing out" tightness and soreness.

Year by year, the fame of Vicks has spread from neighbor to neighbor and from state to state, until now it is used for the colds of adults as well as children in over 60 countries.

The ever-growing demand for this modern method of treating colds is shown in the familiar Vick slogan. Made famous when Vicks reached "17 Million Jars Used Yearly," later raised to "21 Million," these figures are again being changed, as there are now "Over 26 Million Jars Used Yearly"—in the United States alone.

PLUCKED FROM THE AIR

By G. B. WINSTEAD
United Press Radio Editor

New York, Feb. 4.—Radio broadcasters in their efforts to ascertain just what kind of entertainment the public wants have turned to scientific testing apparatus.

Heart reaction tests of a group of prominent personages will be taken in the studios of the Columbia Broadcasting system Thursday during presentation of an especially selected program.

The tests are made possible by recent perfection in the Western Electric laboratories of the electrical multiple stethoscope, and Columbia officials, agreeing with leading medical experts that the "heart does not lie," expect to obtain a truthful record of any reactions from the selected patients.

Nathaniel Shilkret, recording artist will conduct the 200th performance of the Eveready hour orchestra at 8 p. m. today from WEAF and the NBC network.

"Ole Man River" from "Show Boat" will be Walter Stevenson's featured number on the Nunn-Bush program over the Quality network—WOR, WLW and WMAQ—at 8:30 p. m. today.

Another anniversary on the air will be observed today when Paul Whiteman and his Old Gold orchestra appear at 8 p. m., with Harry Richman as guest artist. The program will originate in Hollywood, but Richman will sing several songs from WABC the Columbia network's New York station.

Now Millions More Stop "Dosing" Colds

Better External Treatment Wins New Users All Over the World

Every year since the introduction of Vicks VapoRub, more and more people have given up the old-fashioned way of "dosing" colds and turned to this modern external method. Today, the whole trend of medical practice is away from needless "dosing."

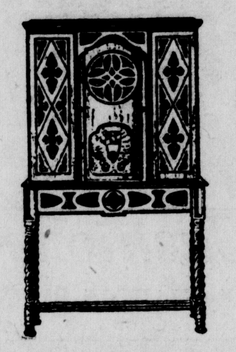

Mothers of young children especially appreciate Vicks because there's nothing to swallow, and, of course, nothing to upset delicate stomachs. Just rubbed on, its medicated vapors are released by the heat of the body and inhaled direct to the inflamed air-passages. At the same time Vicks acts through the skin like a poultice or plaster, "drawing out" tightness and soreness.

Year by year, the fame of Vicks has spread from neighbor to neighbor and from state to state, until now it is used for the colds of adults as well as children in over 60 countries.

The ever-growing demand for this modern method of treating colds is shown in the familiar Vick slogan. Made famous when Vicks reached "17 Million Jars Used Yearly," later raised to "21 Million," these figures are again being changed, as there are now "Over 26 Million Jars Used Yearly"—in the United States alone.

THREE ORDINANCES GO INTO EFFECT

Paper Streamers Prohibited in Dance Halls; Theatres Must Meet Specifications

YELLOW PARKING ZONES

Fourth Ordinance for Establishment of Civil Service Commission Gets Second Reading

Three ordinances were given final passage by the city council last evening, one prohibiting the use of paper streamers at public dances, the second designating yellow marked lines on curbs as official no parking zones and the third regulating the construction of motion picture theatres.

A fourth ordinance establishing civil service in police and fire departments was given its second reading.

The ordinance dealing with paper streamers was adopted at the request of the fire department to eliminate possible fire hazards in dance halls.

The ordinance regulating construction of motion picture theatres was the result of a request for a new license to operate the Lyceum theatre. The ordinance requires incombustible floors, supports for floors, proper ventilation equipment and adopts the Fire Underwriters standards in the construction of the projection room.

The civil service ordinance provides for the establishment of a civil service commission composed of three members appointed by the mayor and approved by the council which commission shall classify all employees of the police and fire departments and provide for competitive examinations for all offices in either department, hear complaints and be empowered to discharge employees for inefficiency. The members of the commission shall serve without compensation and will not be permitted to hold any other public office. The real purpose of the ordinance is to remove the police and fire departments from any connection with politics and make the appointments and retention of positions dependent only on the efficiency of the employee. Further, the ordinance prohibits the members of either departments also from participating in any way in politics.

Under the new ordinance the Lyceum theatre cannot be operated until improvements are made to meet the requirements.

Smraker Gets License

By a vote of five to three Andy Smraker was granted a license to operate his poolroom on Laurel street with the understanding that the east railing at the front of the building be removed.

The council ordered the police department to not permit any loitering in front of the building.

R. R. Gould, of the firm of Gould and Gray, owners of the building, stated to the council that the firm would be willing to do whatever reasonable to sweeten the conditions existing. He agreed that the removal of the east railing would tend to improve conditions.

President Quanstrom attacked the poolroom, stating that it was difficult for a woman to pass in front of the building without being insulted. He attacked the exterior as being a hangout where indecent language was used by the loiterers.

Andy Smraker appeared before the council in defense of the poolroom and himself. He said that he had always tried to live within the law and operate his poolroom as respectably as could possibly be done. He said he had never sold a drop of liquor in his life and that he did not permit any to be sold in his place.

On motion of Aldermen Ritari and Hall the request of City Engineer R. T. Campbell for a filing cabinet for the filing of maps was referred to the property committee.

On motion $5,000 was transferred from the general fund into the public safety fund.

City Engineer Campbell reported that J. M. Mraz had approached him asking permission to move a garage on the former O'Brien property on Broadway to Maple street.

It was explained that no frame buildings can be moved into the fire limits of the city. The matter was laid on the table.

Chandra Gooneratne, M. A. to Appear Under Auspices of Musical Club

AT ELKS HALL SATURDAY

Preceding the Program a Luncheon Will be Held at Ransford

Saturday afternoon, February 8 at the Elks' hall Chandra Dharma Sena Gooneratne, M. A. will give a lecture on phases of Indian life, art or religion, under the auspices of the Brainerd Musical club. The lecture, which begins at 3 o'clock, will follow the luncheon at the Ransford hotel.

Chandra Sena Gooneratne has a keen insight into the problems of India, is an ideal interpreter of the two civilizations, East to West and West to East and the ideals and arts of that country. He is a forceful and entertaining speaker. The Rotary club of Madison, Wis., has this to say about him: "He gave us an understanding and appreciation of India, her problems, religions, ideals and hopes such as we had never had before.

"There are numerous reasons why we should learn about foreign countries, particularly through direct contacts and face to face relationship with authoritative representations. Each nation has its own particular message to the world as a whole, and India, having with age and wisdom a country that has produced sages and seers in olden times is offering her own peculiar and unique contribution to the cultural heritage of the world through illustrious sons of her renaissance, thereby rendering the cultural content of the world richer and more beautiful."

Max Muller of Oxford, England, has said: "If I were asked under what sky the human mind has most deeply pondered on the greatest problems of life and has found solutions of some of them which well deserve the attention even of those who have studied Plato and Kant—I should point to India."

Mr. Chandra has served with the British forces in the east, world war on three different fronts, Mesopotamia, Persia and Flanders with distinction, has worked in Britain with the students from Oxford, Cambridge and London, then at the University of Chicago in America where he has been doing some research. He was at one time the Captain of the Varsity Polo team.

Contact between the east and the west is of comparative recent date, but it has already borne fruit, and all who are interested in this wonderful country should not fail to hear Chandra Dharma Sena Gooneratne.

Three years of actual designing and testing preceded the announcement of the New Oakland Eight. In addition it incorporates General Motors' sixteen years' experience in building fine eight-cylinder automobiles. This mature background accounts for its sound basic design.
Superior Performance
The New Oakland has an 85-horsepower engine. This is the highest power ever employed in a car of Oakland's size and weight, racing cars excepted. Oakland develops one horsepower to 37 pounds of car weight. That's why few cars are as fast. That's why few, if any, can pass it on the hills. That's why it accelerates so rapidly. In fact, that is the reason for its superior performance.
Eight-Cylinder Performance
With its high speed and fast acceleration, the new Oakland combines the smoothness resulting from the overlapping power impulses inherent in eight-cylinder design. This smoothness is intensified by such features as its complete down-draft fuel distribution, its patented laminated spring and rubber engine mountings and a new type of cylinder head which assures uniform combustion.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

THE cold business—procedure of the hospital routine—a new soul was to be born—her baby—hers and Dick's, and those nurses and doctors were laughing in the hall as she passed to her room.

But there was that sweet nurse that Dr. Gibbons had sent to see her—"Miss Tobin"—but my patients call me "Toby," she said. "Miss Tobin"—those brown eyes—what those brown eyes must have seen—babies born——

Would the doctor do anything for her when he came—the afternoon had come—five o'clock—he'd only telephoned. She didn't know what Miss Tobin had said. A strange nurse came in while Miss Tobin went for her supper. If Miss Tobin would only come back.

Then she had fallen asleep—how long—but then—a different kind of pain—

The operating room—torture chamber—Dick—his arms were stronger than Miss Tobins—she felt her hands clutching Miss Tobin's—wonderful woman to be so patient and kind with her—and Dr. Gibbons. He didn't have a heart of stone—oh—Mummy—did you do this for me? I never loved you enough—I didn't understand—oh—Mummy—my Mummy—help me—O—so alone—among strangers—think of soldiers on the battlefield wounded—all alone—Christ—they deserted You that night in Gethsémane—and your mother—the Virgin—like this only in a stable—the wildness of it—like being hurled about in a cyclone—there another one—can't go through it must—can't get away from it—God have pity—

Blackness—

Then coming up—from great depths—way down—up—up—what was that window—it wasn't there before—and that light—the door. Miss Tobin holding her hand. Dr. Gibbons writing on a chart under the light.

"Mrs. Grier," Miss Tobin was speaking. The doctor turned and felt her pulse.

"You've a fine little son, Mrs. Grier."

A son—no more pain—those bandages—Dr. Gibbons—

"Is he all right?" like every mother they were her first words.

She closed her eyes—her baby was all right. It was all over. She must see him—but she couldn't ask—so tired—where was her baby—she remembered they didn't bring them right away in hospitals—perhaps they would this time—so sleepy—can't ask—sleep—

To waken—all over—no more pain—a son—my baby—my little son—Oh, God, You are kind. I promise to live my life as You would have me—my baby—where is he—

Miss Tobin smiling at her as she wakens—dear Toby—how she stood by her. Enid raises her eyes to Miss Tobin—such beautiful eyes Miss Tobin thought, shining out from that white drawn face—poor child—hard time—and her husband in Mexico.

"Miss Tobin, may I see him?"

"Yes, dear," smiled the nurse. "I'll bring him to you."

She was out of the door, shutting it quietly after her. Oh—she was going to see him—her heart fluttered. She watched the door and waited. It was long—what was the matter?

Then the door opened—very slowly and there came Miss Tobin. Holding the baby in one arm, she turned down the covers on Enid's right side and laid the baby on her arm—his little head on her breast. Quietly she turned and left the room.

My baby—my son—the wonder of him—the little soft head and the gentle breathing—the tininess of the hands—such little fingernails—soft against her—the greatest moment of a woman's life—her first born—in her arms—lying close to her heart—alive—safe—her cheek against that little head—kissing it—careful not to touch that soft, beating little place on the top of it—and the dear little feet wrapped in the flannel petticoat—feel them through the little socks—where will those little feet go—God help me to guide them—dear God in heaven—so merciful and kind—the miracle of a new life—and hers—all hers——

Enid glanced up and out of the window. It was there, shining brightly—glorious in its majesty and brilliance—the morning star. Enid held her baby close to her. The tears came. "Our son—Dick."

* * *

Dick and Ned were on their way back to the railroad, after inspecting the new properties which had recently been bought by the company. They had ridden on horseback all day—frightfully hot and tired they were. The cholos were pitching their tents for the night and the fire was made for their supper.

Hardly a word they had spoken all day. But good friends do not have to talk—the blessing of real friendship.

Supper over, they turned in, lying side by side.

Ned was restless. He turned first on one side and then on the other. Dick lay perfectly quiet, as if asleep.

Finally Ned got up and quietly left the tent. Dick could hear him walking up and down in front of it. He heard him strike a match and smelt the smoke of his cigarette.

Dick sat up, thought for a moment, and then went out and joined him. They sat down together, elbows on knees. Ned handed Dick a cigarette and struck a match.

Ned's face was a dream—lines which Dick had never seen before showed in it in the flare of the lighted match.

"God, it's hot!" said Dick, brushing back his hair and loosening the collar of his pajama jacket.

"Fierce," Ned breathed.

"It's no use trying to sleep—I wonder how those spigotys do it," pondered Dick.

"That's all they do," replied Ned. "This country's sound asleep and doesn't know it—the whole place is asleep."

"And lazy—those cholos are dead sore because we kept them going all day."

"And we'll keep them going tomorrow, too," declared Ned.

"Yes—tomorrow night we'll get back to civilization."

"If you call that dump where the railroad ends civilization, Dick."

"We'll have a look at that new gusher when we get there. She ought to be pumping by now."

"But we won't stay there. We can get that train out the next morning. If we get a good start tomorrow we can see the well tomorrow afternoon," urged Ned.

He was silent for a moment, took a last draw on his cigarette and buried it in the sandy soil. Then he spoke.

"We'll surely have some news from home by the time we get there. You know, Dick, this is the week the baby is expected."

"Is it?" lying to Ned by pretending surprise.

"Yes—and there ought to be some sort of a cable for me. When we get in tomorrow I'll telephone—someone will be at the office—either the company's office or the cable office in Tampico—if there are any cables, I'll ask them to open them and read them to me. I'm crazy with this waiting. Rotten I couldn't be there—it's about got me nutty—this wondering and waiting. Suppose she didn't get through it. She's never been sickly—but Enid's kind of frail—anything might happen—God, Dick. You don't know how I feel."

(For God's sake Ned—don't—don't).

"And to think I won't see him when he is first born—to think I couldn't take her to the hospital and be there with her. It's fierce. Poor kid. If she ever needed me in her life, she does now and this damned company had to send me way down here. If she'd only told me. Imagine being that unselfish—my career—the hell with it. No one but Enid would have kept it from me. She's got nerve. Did you notice out on the ranch how she took those trails—you know very well she was frightened—a tenderfoot coming out from the East and riding them without a whimper. How about that day her saddle slipped?"

That day—that day—Enid—that was the beginning.

"Such a gentle, quiet girl, Enid—and yet with that courage of hers—I can't get over it—that she would have the nerve to go through with this without me. I don't know of another woman who wouldn't have raised Cain at the mention of her husband going off to the end of nowhere."

"Enid's one in a million, Ned."

"And that baby's apt to be a couple of months old before I see him, Dick. I certainly didn't get the breaks this time. God, I wish it were morning and we could get started. If I knew the way, I'd start right now—but those spigotys would murder us if we suggested such a thing. I wonder how bringing them would work?"

"I'm afraid not," said Dick. "Money doesn't mean anything to them if it interferes with sleep. Why don't you try to go to sleep, Ned? Here, take a slug of this rum—a good big hooker—that may do the trick." And Dick went into the tent to bring his canteen to Ned.

Ned raised the flask to his lips and took a long drink. He wiped his mouth and handed it back to Dick.

"If this should knock me out, Dick, you get this gang going at daybreak—if you wake up."

If he woke up. Sleep. If he only could. Enid—was she all right—was she suffering—could she endure it—would she survive—Gibbons was good—poor, dear little soul—tomorrow night they might hear something. Ned had thought of the same thing. Telephone to Tampico. Dave would cable immediately—Dave was with her—Dave never had been a tower of strength—but he had a good head and loved his sister.

Dick lit another cigarette and looked at t flask—no, he'd be damned if he would—why should he ease his misery when Enid—and then he might not waken early enough.

He went back to the tent. Ned was snoring.

All through the night Dick lay with a tortured mind—Enid—her—

Light streaks in the sky and the sudden dawn of the tropics. Dick thought of another dawn——

He roused Ned.

"We'd better be getting started, Ned."

Through the thick tangled jungle the trail led—the horses slipping on twisted roots and sinking into the soft slime of boggy swamps.

Slow—

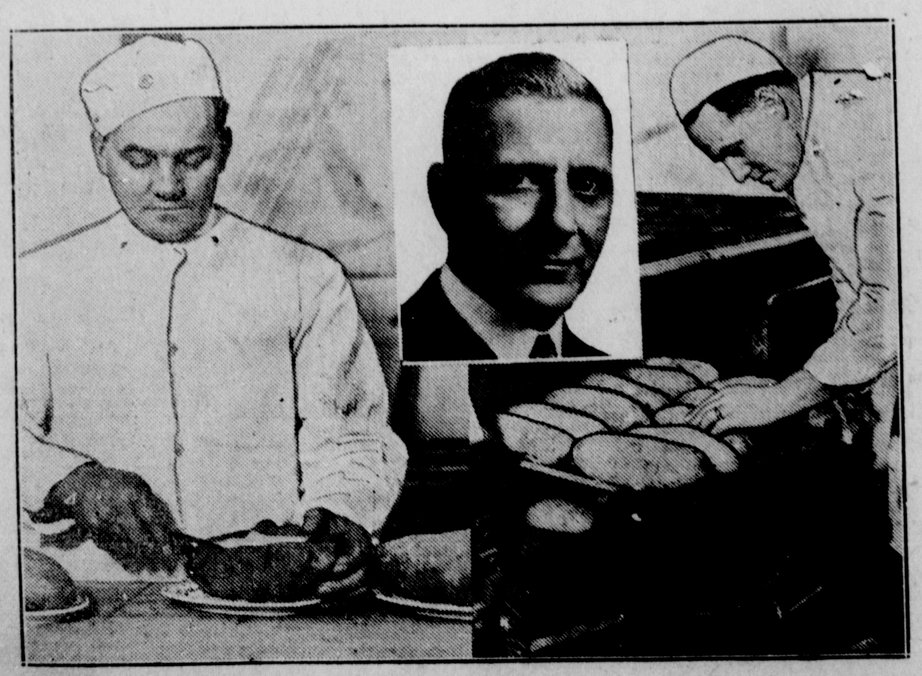

How slowly they went—both white men were urging their horses and thinking, driving in their minds—to get to that place where the railroad began—there were telephone wires, too—

Ned was riding behind the leader Dick was next. He turned his horse off the trail for a moment and said to Dick:

"Dick, you take my place. You're better at this horse business than I am. You jack this fellow up. Try your Spanish on him and if that doesn't work, try some good old American profanity. He may be able to translate it more quickly."

Enough big baked potatoes are served on Northern Pacific Railway company diners in their 5,000,000 miles of travel each year to supply nearly 1,100 normal families. Chefs on these diners in the course of a year prepare and serve 648,000 pounds of these tubers. "The Route of the Great Big Baked Potato" is a sobriquet which has been attached naturally to this railway company. The picture shows William B. Cooper, chef on the North Coast Limited, preparing a small mess of potatoes. Those he is taking out of the oven (on the right) average two pounds each. On the left, he is cutting the potato down the middle, showing how it is served on the dining cars. The inset shows A. W. Thomson, superintendent of the dining car department.

"Yes—tomorrow night we'll get back to civilization."

"If you call that dump where the railroad ends civilization, Dick."

"We'll have a look at that new gusher when we get there. She ought to be pumping by now."

"But we won't stay there. We can get that train out the next morning. If we get a good start tomorrow we can see the well tomorrow afternoon," urged Ned.

He was silent for a moment, took a last draw on his cigarette and buried it in the sandy soil. Then he spoke.

"We'll surely have some news from home by the time we get there. You know, Dick, this is the week the baby is expected."

"Is it?" lying to Ned by pretending surprise.

"Yes—and there ought to be some sort of a cable for me. When we get in tomorrow I'll telephone—someone will be at the office—either the company's office or the cable office in Tampico—if there are any cables, I'll ask them to open them and read them to me. I'm crazy with this waiting. Rotten I couldn't be there—it's about got me nutty—this wondering and waiting. Suppose she didn't get through it. She's never been sickly—but Enid's kind of frail—anything might happen—God, Dick. You don't know how I feel."

(For God's sake Ned—don't—don't).

"And to think I won't see him when he is first born—to think I couldn't take her to the hospital and be there with her. It's fierce. Poor kid. If she ever needed me in her life, she does now and this damned company had to send me way down here. If she'd only told me. Imagine being that unselfish—my career—the hell with it. No one but Enid would have kept it from me. She's got nerve. Did you notice out on the ranch how she took those trails—you know very well she was frightened—a tenderfoot coming out from the East and riding them without a whimper. How about that day her saddle slipped?"

That day—that day—Enid—that was the beginning.

"Such a gentle, quiet girl, Enid—and yet with that courage of hers—I can't get over it—that she would have the nerve to go through with this without me. I don't know of another woman who wouldn't have raised Cain at the mention of her husband going off to the end of nowhere."

"Enid's one in a million, Ned."

"And that baby's apt to be a couple of months old before I see him, Dick. I certainly didn't get the breaks this time. God, I wish it were morning and we could get started. If I knew the way, I'd start right now—but those spigotys would murder us if we suggested such a thing. I wonder how bribing them would work?"

"I'm afraid not," said Dick. "Money doesn't mean anything to them if it interferes with sleep. Why don't you try to go to sleep, Ned? Here, take a slug of this rum—a good big hooker—that may do the trick." And Dick went into the tent to bring his canteen to Ned.

Ned raised the flask to his lips and took a long drink. He wiped his mouth and handed it back to Dick.

"If this should knock me out, Dick, you get this gang going at daybreak—if you wake up."

If he woke up. Sleep. If he only could. Enid—was she all right—was she suffering—could she endure it—would she survive—Gibbons was good—poor, dear little soul—tomorrow night they might hear something. Ned had thought of the same thing. Telephone to Tampico. Dave would cable immediately—Dave was with her—Dave never had been a tower of strength—but he had a good head and loved his sister.

Dick lit another cigarette and looked at t flask—no, he'd be damned if he would—why should he ease his misery when Enid—and then he might not waken early enough.

He went back to the tent. Ned was snoring.

All through the night Dick lay with a tortured mind—Enid—her—

Light streaks in the sky and the sudden dawn of the tropics. Dick thought of another dawn——

He roused Ned.

"We'd better be getting started, Ned."

Through the thick tangled jungle the trail led—the horses slipping on twisted roots and sinking into the soft slime of boggy swamps.

Slow—

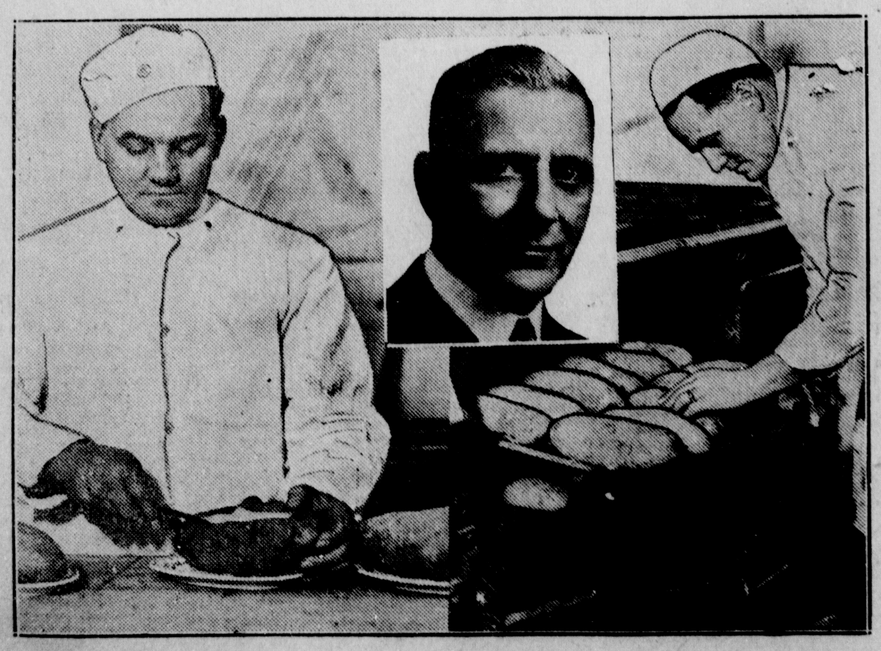

How slowly they went—both white men were urging their horses and thinking, driving in their minds—to get to that place where the railroad began—there were telephone wires, too—

Ned was riding behind the leader Dick was next. He turned his horse off the trail for a moment and said to Dick:

"Dick, you take my place. You're better at this horse business than I am. You jack this fellow up. Try your Spanish on him and if that doesn't work, try some good old American profanity. He may be able to translate it more quickly."

Enough big baked potatoes are served on Northern Pacific Railway company diners in their 5,000,000 miles of travel each year to supply nearly 1,100 normal families. Chefs on these diners in the course of a year prepare and serve 648,000 pounds of these tubers. "The Route of the Great Big Baked Potato" is a sobriquet which has been attached naturally to this railway company. The picture shows William B. Cooper, chef on the North Coast Limited, preparing a small mess of potatoes. Those he is taking out of the oven (on the right) average two pounds each. On the left, he is cutting the potato down the middle, showing how it is served on the dining cars. The inset shows A. W. Thomson, superintendent of the dining car department.

Fashions for the Smart Woman

FOR THE STREET

The one-piece, lightweight woolen frock is a vital factor in the autumn wardrobe of the well-dressed woman. All the leading couturiers are featuring beautifully tailored street frocks, which, in spite of their smartly practical air, are given charmingly feminine touches. The frock shown here, executed in a loosely woven tweed, exhibits the higher waistline upon which Paris insists. It is made with a youthfully double-breasted design and with inverted pleats attached in pointed outline. The white pique collar and vestee forms a perfect finishing touch.

Pictorial Printed Pattern No. 4979. Sizes 14 to 46, 45 cents.
